How Much Is Your Digital Life Worth on the Dark Net?

What exactly is the Dark Net?

We often hear terms like “Dark Web” or “Dark Net,” and they might sound mysterious. Since these terms are often associated with crimes, it’s not surprising they have an unsettling aura.

The Dark Net is not a difficult concept to understand. It’s a part of the Internet that can only be accessed with specialized Internet browsers and it’s not indexed by search engines. This means that you need to already know where to go, which makes it more challenging to access by regular users.

It should not be confused with the Deep Web, which accounts for most of the Internet. Much of the content of the Deep Web is not directly accessible because it requires credentials, and it’s not indexed by search engines either.

Any website that requires credentials, like science journals, for example, fall into the Deep Web category. Search engines do not index their content; you need access to visualize it.

Something for every criminal

The Dark Net can be a terrifying place. It's home to many illegal services and products, from stolen video streaming accounts to guns, drugs, and more.

It's impossible to cover everything, so we took a closer look at some of the illegal products that pertain directly to consumers.

People might read in the media that their stolen credentials or credit cards ended up for sale on the Dark Net, but it's difficult to picture how or where, since this is such a hazy part of the online world.

Looking behind the curtain is always useful, especially for consumers, as it might persuade them to be a lot more careful with their personal information.

This report only covers a small fraction of what's available on the Dark Net, but it's enough to give people an idea of what this part of the Internet looks like. It's still a dangerous place, but at least it won't be mysterious.

Not everything on the Deep Web or even the Dark Net is illegal. But the reality is that this is where many criminals come to sell their goods, and where other criminals come to buy.

Which makes it an interesting from another perspective. Yes, you can actually find illegal products, but there's also a lot of scamming going on, mainly due to people trying to sell things they don't have.

Just like in the "above" world, people will try to scam customers, and this is especially true on the Dark Net.

Credit cards

- ↳ When criminals gain access to a credit card, this is how the sale might look
- ↳ Cloned, stolen or skimmed credit cards sometimes end up on the black market. And they sell at a price that will scare anyone.
- ↳ It looks and acts pretty much like a regular store.
- ↳ Depending on the order, it can go as low at $80.

Crypto and mobile network services

- ↳ As anyone can imagine, crypto currencies are of interest everywhere.
- ↳ It's not really a surprise that compromised crypto accounts, from services like crypto.com, are available for sale.
- ↳ Depending on the location, it's also possible to buy working SIM cards in bulk. Four anonymous Swiss numbers cost around 300 euros.

This screenshot shows a marketplace listing for a 'Crypto.com Full account verified with device & sim'. The listing includes a header with a sunset graphic, a breadcrumb trail 'Drugs > Other > SIM Cards & Phones', and a view count of 644. The main title is 'Crypto.com Full account verified with device & sim'. Below the title, there are fields for 'Rating' (4 stars), 'Sold' (0), 'Source' (United Kingdom), and 'Ships to' (Worldwide). There are 'Contact vendor' and 'Buy product' buttons. A price table at the bottom shows a single item for sale:

Quantity	Price (€)	Price (€/pc)	Price (XMR)

Social media accounts and data breaches

- ↳ While it might not be evident, compromised social media accounts are highly sought after.
- ↳ Data breaches related to social media networks and other types of accrued databases are also often found online for sale.
- ↳ Most of the time, the prices of credentials for many of these data breaches are really low.
- ↳ Buying followers online is also possible. For example, 50,000 Instagram followers cost around $250.

Physical IDs

- ↳ Real IDs, or IDs that are as close to real as possible, are among the most expensive items. This is one reason we need to guard our IDs very closely.
- ↳ Criminals offer all kinds of IDs. For example, we found German driving licenses, with embedded NFC chips, selling for 2,500 Euros.
- ↳ A registered Maltese passport goes for up to 3,500 Euros, a registered UK passport for 2,500 Euros, and a US passport for 1,680 Euros.
- ↳ An EU biometric passport can go for as much as 4,500 Euros.

Streaming services

- ↳ Whether they're stolen or created with compromised credit cards, streaming accounts are also available for purchase.
- ↳ Criminals make bundles and try all types of marketing strategies to persuade people to buy.
- ↳ These are some of the products that can be purchased using crypto currency.

How to stay safe online

- ↳ Given how much of our information can end up online, it's only logical to look for ways to make sure we're at least protected.
- ↳ Stay updated. It's important to know which company was affected, what type of information was compromised and how many people were affected and the time period of the breach (if pertinent). Knowing this information can help determine whether or not your information is at risk.
- ↳ Monitor your credit/debit cards closely. If there is a chance that your credit or debit card information was stolen, keep an eye on your bank statements for unauthorized activity.
- ↳ One way to remain safe is to always check your digital footprint by using a dedicated identity protection plan: Digital Identity Protection or Identify Theft Protection.
- ↳ Using these services, you can discover if any of your personal information has ended up online without your knowledge.
- ↳ Communicate with your bank. If you notice any unauthorized activity on your cards, call your bank to file a claim for fraud.

Trusted.
Always.
